

Cllr Paul Bingham – Biography

I was born and educated in Folkestone and studied archaeology at the University of Kent. I am married with two sons. I have worked in the electrical and care industries and my interests are in local history, archaeology and education, I am a supporter of Folkestone Invicta FC and am a former Governor at two local schools.

Since being elected to local Council in 2019, I have become a member of the Community Services Committee and Finance and General Purposes Committee. I am a Trustee of the John Bowley and Sherwood Almshouses and am a member of the Council of British Archaeology and Canterbury Archaeology.
